AUGUST TERM OF COURT

Dominic Constance Found Guilty Of Arson.

Green and Dillen Preparing Through Their Attorney to Make a Hard Fight for Their Lives--Want the Case Continued

JUSTICE DEAN REFUSES TO ACT.

[Reported by W. Harrison Walker.]

The regular August session of court began Monday with Hon. Jno. G. Love, P. J., on the bench and Prothonotar Gardner and Register Archey in their usual places. The forenoon was taken up in the presentation of motions and petitions by the several members of the bar. The constables of the several boroughs and townships made their quarterly returns.

The Court delived his usual instructive charge to the members of the grand jury and dwelt some time on the crimes recently committed and which would come before them for disposition. He also urged upon them to act as promptly as possible on all bills of indictment laid before them by District Attorney Spangler for the reason that the list was exceptionally large and no time could be lost in waiting for cases for trial.

The Court appointed Daniel Irvin foreman of the grand jury. Mr. Irvin is a resident of Ferguson township.

There are 51 cases on the Calendar for trial, in which is included the jail breakers.

There are 7 civil cases on the list for trial.

Mr. Jno. Kelley, laborer from South Philipsburg borough was excused by the Court from acting on the grand jury for the reason that he was not a citizen of the United States.

Seventeen members of the grand jury answered to their names when called.

Geo. S. Burrows, Esq., of Sunbury, the official stenographer arrived in Bellefonte on the morning train and is in his usual place in court.

In the case of Thos. F. Brungart vs. Geo. B. and Reuben Lucas administrators of Morgan N. Lucas, deceased, a verdict was taken in favor of the plaintiff in the sum of $1983,97 debt and $100 attorneys commission.

A verdict was also taken in the case of Thos. E. Griffeth vs. Morgan M. Lucas' administrators in the sum of $197,-48 debt and $8.42 attorneys commission.

The case of Frank McCoy, et al, executors of J. D. Shugert, late of Bellefonte borough, decease, vs Lewis Rosenthall, being an appeal was continued to next term of court.

The case of Harrisburg Grocery Produce Co., vs. Chas. P. Long, being an appeal was continued, also the case of J. H. Lingle vs Rosenthal.

W. Harrison Walker, Esq., was appointed as Auditor in the estate of Jas. M. Lucas, late of Boggs township Pa., deceased.

N. B. Spangler, Esq., was appointed an Auditor in the estate of Morgan M. Lucas, deceased, filed by the administrator, and also W. Harrison Waker as trustee appointed by the Court for said decedent.

Court adjourned to 1:30 Monday afternoon.

Court called at two o'clock Monday afternoon with Hon. Jno. G. Love, P. J., on the bench and the other Court officials in their respective places. Quite a number of petition and motions were presented, among which were the petitions for final discharges of Elmer Aikens and Oscar Schenck.

A petition was read on behalf of O. A. Harvey, Horace Stiver and Elmer Flannigan, of Clinton Co., who were instrumental in the capture of Dillen, Green and Henderson in the swamps near Beech Creek some time ago. They made a demand on the Commissioners of Centre county for the reward offered by said Commissioners for the capture of these jail breakers of $600,00 and were refused for the reason that several other parties made similar demands upon the Commissioners. The Court after the petition was presented and read, and after some argument by counsel, granted a rule on the Commissioners to show cause why they should not pay the rewards to the petitioners. Rule to be returnable to October argument court.

The indictments against Dillen, Green, Henderson and Constance will likely be presented to the grand jury today by the District Attorney, N. B. Spangler. Other attorneys interested in these four cases, and the cases for which these parties were arrested and committed to jail before they made their escape, are as follows: For the Commonwealth, District Attorney, N. B. Spangler, Ellis L. Orvis, Col E. R. Chambers, and Col. W. F. Reeder. The defendants will be represented by H. C. Quigley, Esq.: W. Harrison Walker, Esq., and Clement Dale, Esq.

The only case called for trial Monday afternoon was that of Commonwealth vs. the Viard family of South Philipsburg borough, who are charged with resisting an officer of said boro. The facts of the case will be given in detail later.

The powers of A. A. Dale, Esq., as Auditor in the Thomas Meyer estate were enlarged and continued to next term of court.

TUESDAY MORNING.

The Grand Jury ignored the following Bills of Indictment and placed costs on prosecutors.

Com. vs Daniel Sones, assault and battery, prosecutor, Max Sultzberg.

Com. vs. Harrison Stine assault and battery, prosecutor, Oscar Viard.

Com. vs. Daniel Stine, assault and battery, prosecutor, Charles Viard.

The case of Commonwealth vs. Charles Viard, Hilory Viard and Oscar Viard charged 1 count, resisting an officer; 2 assault and battery. Prosecutor Daniel Stine.

From the evidence on the case it appears that on May 18th last, Chief of Police Stine of South Philipsburg Borough attempted to arrest the above defendants for an offense committed by them inviolation of our ordinance. The defendants resisted, arrested and overpowered the police a "scrap" followed.

At 11:10 a. m. the case of Commonwealth vs. George Henderson who was indicted for larceny and also for jail breaking came up. The defendant entered pleas of guilty of larceny and also of breaking jail and escape.

Dominic Constance also plead guilty to escaping from jail.

The Viards were fined guilty of assault and battery and sentenced by the court as follows:—Hilary Viard to pay a fine of $15 and committed to jail for 60 days and costs of prosecution. The other two defendants sentenced to pay a fine of $20 each and costs of prosecution.

The grand jury returned true bill for murder in the first degree against Ira Green and Wm. Dillen. In the cases of Henderson and Constance the murder charge was ignored but a true bill for jail breaking was rendered. A true bill for arson was found against Dominic Constance and a true bill for larceny against Henderson.

Dominic Constance charged with felonious arson was then taken up for trial. The prosecutor was David Rothrock of Benner township. District attorney Spangler was assisted in this case by Col. W. F. Reeder and Col. E. R. Chambers. The defendant was represented by H. C. Quigley and W. Harrison Walker. The challenging of the jury occupied the balance of the morning session of Tuesday and court adjourned until 2 o'clock.

Court opened Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Nearly an hour and a half was taken up empanneling a jury and after that work was done an application for a continuance of the trial of Ira Green and Wm. Dillon was presented by ex-Judge A. O. Furst and Clement Dale who will represent them at the trial. It was a lengthy document and by the time the commonwealth's attorneys finished with arguments in the same the afternoon was nearly over.

The first witness to be called by the commonwealth in the Rothrock—Constance case was Squire David Rothrock. In part he said on the night of the 12th of June between the hours of 11 and 12 o'clock, my family were awakened by some one yelling fire and kicking on one of the doors at my home. My wife ran down stairs in her night clothes and met Mr. John Grove who said your house is on fire. I followed immediately after her and when I arrived on the scene she was pumping water into buckets and handing Mr. Grove. The outer kitchen had been thoroughly saturated with oil, and the flames were leaping to the eaves of the roof. A lounge we had in the kitchen was soaked with oil, and he and Mrs. Rothrock carried the same into the yard.

He told of the foot-prints in his garden leading toward the Italian shanties, and how Mr. Rightnour, the County Detective, with Clarence McCafferty, came to their home the next day, and with a pair of shoes, gotten at the shanty where Dominic lived, which fitted perfectly into the tracks made by the person, who had traveled through Mr. Rothrocks garden, the night before.

John Grove was next sworn and said he was returning from the lime kilns where he had gone to summon a doctor as he had sickness in his family and when coming up the road, near the Rothrock home, he saw flames leaping out through the roof and out of the windows of their out kitchen. He immediately ran to the home, awakened the occupants and with their assistance saved the house and other buildings.

Mrs. Jane Rothrock was next sworn and said I was awakened from my sleep by some one kicking on the door and yelling "your house is on fire. I hurried down stairs in my night clothes and saw it was my neighbor, Mr. John Grove, I assisted him and my husband in extinguishing the fire. She told nearly the same story as did her husband and Mr. Grove. She spoke of having filled her lamps on Sunday evening in a little room off from the out-kitchen and that is where she always kept her can of oil. The can of oil was found by Mr. Grove in the out kitchen and was half-full at the time.

J. W. Rightnour was sworn and said he has known Dominic over five months. Saw him Monday afternoon June 13th at Mr. Grove's farm talking to Mr. Grove. He says Dominic told him he had not the same shoes on that he wore the night before. After questioning, Dominic told him the shoes were his brother-in-laws, and were at the shanty. The shoes were secured and taken to the Rothrock garden where they claim they fitted perfectly into the tracks made by the person who had walked there.

Clarence McCafferty was next sworn and gave nearly the same evidence as Detective Rightnour.

John Hampton was sworn and said he saw Dominic about eleven o'clock the night of June 12th going toward the road leading to the Rothrock homestead. He said he was making a pretty fast gait and when asked where he was going Dominic said, 'I am taking a walk." Hampton is a fireman at the Centre County Lime kilns and was on his way to get a bucket of water. At about 12 o'clock he went after another pail of water and met Dominic coming from the direction in which he went, and that he was "trotting," Hampton had his story down pretty pat and was a hard witness to cross examine.

LeRoy Leathers, a constable from Howard, was sworn and testified that some time ago he had been to the Centre county jail and in a conversation with Dominic he said that he would soon get out, and spoke of Mr. Rothrock saying "he no so smart, I will get even with him."

After N. B. Spangler testified as to the shoes being in his custody since Mr. Rightnour gave them to him the commonwealth rested.

Dominic Constance was the first witness on the defense, and he caused a great deal of fun for the audience and the dignified barristers.

When he was told to take the witness stand he walked up to the chair picket it up and started back towards his attorney, but he soon saw his mistake and replaced the chair. His story was clear and he positively denied having worn the shoes and having had anything at all to do with the fire. He swore that at the time of the fire he was in bed asleep and that he did not see Hampton. He didn't know why he had been arrested as he knew nothing of the fire. The shoes were produced and he was asked to put them on, while he was unlacing the shoes he had on, he said "may be my feet smell" and looked toward the Judge and smiled, which caused another uproar in the audience. He tried his very best to put the shoes on but they were easily two sizes too small. Some of the jurymen and lawyers tried their best to get them on but did not succeed, so the shoes were left off, as we stated above he tells a clear story which is greatly in his favor.

Mrs. Carona Constance was the next witness sworn and she says positively her brother was in bed at the alleged time of the fire. The reason she knew he was there, she has a very young baby and at that time she was awake nearly every hour during the night with it and she saw her brother every time she got awake. She said her brother Dominic went to bed about ten o'clock and that he never wore the shoes produced in court, as her husband had bought them for her and that she had not worn them because they were a little large. She also said Dominic had tried to get them on but could not do so.

Court adjourned until Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock.

WEDNESDAY MORNING.

James Izo was the next witness

DOMINIC CONSTANCE.
Convicted of attempting to fire the residence of David Rothrock.

sworn and says he lives up Buffalo Run and that Dominic Constance was his brother-in-law and boarded at his home. I did not know about the fire until I heard the people talking about it at the quarries the next morning. I remember Rightnour coming to my home, he had arrested Dominic and had him with him. I swear Dominic was not out of the house that night. He was asleep in bed. I know the shoes as I bought them for my wife and we wore them between us. The shoes were produced and as he has a smaller foot than Dominic he could easily get them on. He says Dominic went to bed the same time he did. Hampton had been at his home during the afternoon and drank of their beer and had a meal. Five or six men slept in the same room with Dominic that night.

Mike Izo was next sworn, had heard of the fire next day. He stated that Dominic slept in the same bed with him and that he was not out of the house the night of the 12th of June as he was sick, and that Dominic was asleep when he went to bed between 10 and 11 o'clock and as they always had a light burning he could easily see him. He had his clothes off and hung on a hook near his cot.

James Izo says Dominic lived at the same shanty, that he lived, and slept in the same bed room and that Dominic was in bed and asleep when he retired. He took him a bottle of milk as the boy was sick. He says Dominic did not leave the bed room that night.

Lewis Boskard was sworn and gave nearly the same testimony as did the others, with the exception that he and Dominic went to bed the same time.

Dominic Constance, re-called and said he never told young Hampton he was going to fix Dave Rothrock. Never had a conversation with Constable Leathers in regard to Rothrock, never said I would get even with him, I was in the shanty all night. I was not near the Rothrock home that night. When asked who set fire to the Rothrock home he said Joe Rightnour and then said he did not know.

A. C. Mingle sworn, Dominic was made to take off his shoes again. Mr. Mingle measured his foot, and half the jury and the commonwealth's attorneys worked hard to get them on his feet but did not succeed, and Dominic says at that time "he had 10 ply Italian stockings on his feet," much heavier than the ones he had on in court. After this the case went to the jury, but it seems as though Dominic will be acquitted, as the evidence is not strong against him.

Col. Wilbur F. Reeder argued for the commonwealth presenting a strong statement of his side of the question. W. Harrison Walker made an eloquent speech in defense of Constance after which Judge Love presented a fair and impartial charge.

Later—On convening of court this afternoon the jury being out ten minutes Dominic Constance was found guilty.

On account of W. Harrison Walker's connection with the Constance case as an attorney, the report of that trial was not given us by Mr. Walker but by reporter for the Bellefonte Republican.

THE MURDER TRIALS.

Wednesday morning Judge Love refused to continue the cases of Green and Dillen and set them down for trial Thursday morning The attorneys for the defense however carried it to the Suprem Court and Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock Henry C. Quigley Esq., argued the case before Honorable John Dean at Hollidaysburg.

Col. E. R. Chambers on behalf of the commonwealth opposed the continuance asked for by the defense.

Justice Dean after hearing the arguments on both sides refused to interfere and Green and Dillen must face a jury on charge of murder today.

REPORT OF THE GRAND JURY.

To the Honorable Jno. G. Love, P. J. of the Court of Quarter Sessions of Centre Co.

The Grand Inquest of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, inquiring in and for the County of Centre in all matters relating to the same do refpectfully report: That they have acted upon 32 bills of indictment, of which 24 were found true bills and 8 ignored. We beg leave further to report that we have visited and inspected the county buildings and find the jail kept in a clean and orderly condition. We found the cells in the jail very well kept, but we recommend that the hinges on the steel cells No. 7 and 8 be placed on the outside of the cells, we mean that they should fasten to the doors and walls outside instead of inside.

We further report that the floors in the jail are showing considerable wear and weakening in places and would respectfully call the attention of the County Commissioners or proper officers to look into this matter. We would further recommend that the small openings and crevices about the windows and grating in the steel cells No. 7 and 8 be closed so that occupants of these cells will be unable to secret matter that may be secretly given them. We further recommend that replastering of the jail walls around the yard inside We find the landing at the rear entrance to court room in bad condition.

We thank the Honorable Court and District Attorney for courtesies shown us during our sitting.

FATHER KILLS HIS OWN SON.

A Family Quarrel Ends in a Murder—Awful Tragedy at Curwensville.

Curwensville, August 22.—A family quarrel Wednesday evening Aug. 17, ended in murder. A fifty-year-old man by the name of Sheehan is imprisoned in the borough lockup charged with killing his 23-year-old son.

The father and son, who were employes of the tannery, got into an altercation while at work. They went home to supper at 6 o'clock and inside the house the quarreling was renewed. There are conflicting stories told about the affair by the other inmates of the house, but as Chief-of-Police Snyder gathered, the elder Sheehan, angered beyond control, drew a revolver and began shooting. Five bullets were fired at the young fellow, who was retreating to the cellar. The last leaden missile struck home, piercing the body below the heart and causing instant death.

The scene of the tragedy is some distance out from town and it was probably an hour before the chief of police arrived. He found the dead body lying where it had fallen and the father sitting stoically in the same room. The old man was arrested and brought to town. He remains calm and refuses to make any statement. The mother of the dead boy is almost crazed with grief.

There is a report going that both the Sheehans had revolvers and that a duel at close range was in progress when the killing occurred. This rumor cannot be verified, however.

Chief Snyder is unable to give the first name of either of the Sheehans. The prisoner was taken to the Clearfield jail Friday.

A FORMER CENTRE COUNTIAN.

Lucian Sylvester Fryberger Dies at Altoona.

Thursday's Altoona Tribune contained the following account of the death of a former Centre Countian.

At 4:20 o'clock Wednesday afternoon Lucian Sylvester Fryberger, proprietor of the Hotel Richelieu at Altoona, died of typhoid fever, after an illness covering a period of nine weeks. He was first taken down with Bright's disease, which was followed by fever and during all his illness he bore his sufferings with fortitude and was resigned to the will of his Creator. Deceased was a son of John (deceased) and Sarah Fryberger and was born at Hecla Furnace, near Bellefonte, on December 27, 1864. After receiving a common school education he became a telegraph operator and was one of the first operators and station agents employed by the New York Central railroad. Later in life he located in Irvona, where he was engaged in the grocery and hotel business for seventeen years. He came to Altoona from Irvona last April and purchased the Richelieu hotel, which he had since conducted. He was a member of the Tyrone lodge of Elks, McKinley lodge of Knights of Pythias, and the Ancient Order Knights of the Mystic Chain, of Irvona. He was widely known in and about Irvona for his generosity and charitable acts and was greatly esteemed by all who shared his acquaintance. Since coming to Altoona he made many friends, who will learn of his death with sincere regret. He was married nineteen years ago to Miss Georgia Lucas, of Snow Shoe, who survives, with two children—Guy and Sarah. He is also survived by his mother, Mrs. Sarah Fryberger, of Williamsport, and these brothers and sisters: Mrs. Lydia Fisher, of Zion, Pa.; Mrs. Sadie Campbell, of Williamsport; Mrs. Annie Garbrick, of Bellefonte; Mrs. Amanda Grimm; of Jasper county, Mo., and Charles Fryberger, of Philipsburg. The funeral took place Saturday afternoon. Interment in Fairview cemetery.

A Poor Woman's Hoard Restored.

The Wellsboro Gazette of Thursday prints the following from Blossburg:

"Thirty-one years ago Mrs. Thomas Healy lost $650 on the street in this place and never ceased to grieve overthe loss until her death, 11 years ago. Last week the money was returned to the heirs of Mrs. Healy through the Rev. Geo. J. Lucas, D. D., rector of St. Andrews Catholic church of Blossburg.

"Mrs. Healy had managed by years of hard work and economizing to save $650, which she always carried on her person. One morning, while returning from St. Andrew's church she dropped the roll of bills. The loss was advertised in the papers and announced from the altar, but the money was never recovered. The woman never again got such a start in the world.

"While some of the details have not been discovered, it is known that the return of the money is due to a deathbed confession. Some weeks ago a man, formerly of this place, died in a western town. To the priest who administered the last rites he confessed having found and kept the money and directed that it be returned to the heirs of the rightful owner.

"The priest notified his bishop, who in turn communicated with Bishop Hoban, of Scranton and that prelate asked Dr. Lucas to hunt up the heirs.

"Mrs. Healy had two sons Jeremiah and John, who are both dead. Jeremiah left four sons and John left one. Among those five children, who reside in Blossburg with their mothers, the money has been apportioned."

Many Hurt in Wreck at Conewago.

Conewago Junction, Aug. 22.—Dashing into a huge rock that had been loosened rom its position on a high embankment overhanging the tracks of the Pensylvania railroad near here early Saturday morning, the third section of Pittsburg and Cincinnati Express, west bound, was thrown into a ditch.

The entire train consisting of locomotive and six cars were wrecked, and the fireman and engineer, who went over with an engine, were badly hurt. Other trainmen were severely hurt. Details of the catastrophe at this hour are meagre.

Harrisburg was asked for medical assistance and word has been received here that Dr. E. H. James and H. B. Walter have started to the scene of the wreck.

—The members of U. B. church of Paradise, contemplate holding a festival Sept. 2 and 3d for benefit of the church. A good time is assured all who come.

to decide. Do you want them, sir?"

"No," he replied, starting erect and withdrawing his hand from the blotter. "It's but a trifle—not worth our attention. But I thank you just the same for bringing it to my notice."

And again his manner became a plain dismissal.

This time I accepted it as such without question. Carelessly restoring the piece of blotting paper to the book from which I had taken it, I made a bow and withdrew toward the door. He seemed to be thinking, and the deep furrows which I am sure had been lacking from his brow a week previous became startlingly visible. Finally he observed:

"Mrs. Jeffrey was not in her right mind when she so unhappily took her life. I see now that the change in her dates back to her wedding day; consequently any little peculiarity she may have shown at that time is not to be wondered at."

"Certainly not," I boldly ventured, "if such peculiarities were shown after the fright given her by the catastrophe which took place in the library."

His eyes, which were fixed on mine, flashed, and his hands closed convulsively.

"We will not consider the subject," he muttered, reseating himself in the chair from which he had risen.

I bowed again and went out. I did not dwell on the interview in my own mind, nor did I allow myself to draw any conclusions from it till I had carried the blotter into the southwest chamber of the Moore house and carefully compared the impressions made on it with the marks I had scratched on the surface of the mantelshelf. This I did by laying the one over the other after having made holes where his finger tips had touched the blotter.

The holes in the blotter and the marks outlined upon the shelf coincided exactly.

CHAPTER IX.

I HAVE already mentioned the man whom I secretly looked upon as standing between me and all preferment. He was a good looking fellow, but he wore a natural sneer which for some reason I felt to be always directed toward myself. This sneer grew pronounced about this time, and that was the reason, no doubt, why I continued to work as long as I did in secret. I dreaded the open laugh of this man, a laugh which always seemed hovering on his lips and which was only held in restraint by the awe we all felt of the major.

Notwithstanding, I made one slight move. Encountering the deputy coroner, I ventured to ask if he was quite satisfied with the evidence collected in the Jeffrey case.

His surprise did not prevent him from asking my reasons for this question.

I replied to this effect:

"Because I have a little friend winsome enough and subtle enough to worm the truth out of the devil. I hear that the girl Loretta is suspected of knowing more about this unfortunate tragedy than she is willing to impart. If you wish this little friend of mine to talk to her I will see that she does so and does so with effect."

The deputy coroner looked interested.

"Whom do you mean by 'little friend,' and what is her name?"

"I will send her to you."

And I did.

The next day I was standing on the corner of Vermont avenue when I saw Jinny advancing from the house in K street. She was chipper, and she was smiling in a way which made me say to myself:

"It is fortunate that Durbin is not here."

For Jinny's one weakness is her lack of power to hide the satisfaction she takes in any detective work that comes her way. I had told her of this and had more than once tried to impress upon her that her smile was a complete give away, but I noticed that if she kept it from her lips it forced its way out of her eyes, and if she kept it out of her eyes it beamed like an inner radiance from her whole face. So I gave up the task of making her perfect and let her go on smiling, glad that she had such frequent cause for it.

This morning her smile had a touch of pride in it as well as of delight, and, noting this, I remarked:

"You have made Loretta talk."

Her head went up, and a demure dimple appeared in her cheek.

"What did she say?" I urged. "What has she been keeping back?"

"You will have to ask the coroner. My orders were strict to bring the results of my interview immediately to him."

"Does that include Durbin?"

"Does it include you?"

"I am afraid not."

"You are right. But why shouldn't it include you?"

"What do you mean, Jinny?"

"Why do you keep your own counsel so long? You have ideas about this crime, I know. Why not mention them?"

"Jinny!"

"A word to the wise is sufficient." She laughed and turned her pretty face toward the coroner's office. But she was a woman and could not help glancing back, and, meeting my dubious look, she broke into an arch smile and naively added this remark: "Loretta is a busybody ashamed of her own curiosity. So much there can be no harm in telling you. When one's knowledge has been gained by lingering behind doors and peeping through cracks, one is not so ready to say what one has seen and heard. Loretta is in that box and, being more than a little scared by the police, was glad to let her anxiety and her fears overflow into a sympathizing ear. Won't she be surprised when she is called up some fine day by the coroner! I wonder if she will blame me for it?"

"She will never think of doing so," I basely assured my little friend, with an appreciative glance at her sparkling eye and dimpled cheek.

The arch little creature started to move off again. As she did so she cried, "Be good, and don't let Durbin cut in on you," but stopped for the second time when half across the street, and when, obedient to her look, I hastily rejoined her, she whispered demurely: "Oh, I forgot to tell you something that I heard this morning and that nobody but yourself has any right to know. I was following your commands and buying groceries at Simpkins' when, just as I was coming out with my arms full, I heard old Mr. Simpkins mention Mr. Jeffrey's name and with such interest that I naturally wanted to hear what he had to say. Having no real excuse for staying, I poked my finger into a bag of sugar I was carrying till the sugar ran out, and I had to wait till it was put up again. This did not take long, but it took long enough for me to hear the old grocer say that he knew Mr. Jeffrey and that that gentleman had come into his shop only a day or two before his wife's death to buy—candles!"

The archness with which this was said, together with the fact itself, made me her slave forever. As her small figure faded from sight down the avenue I decided to take her advice and follow up whatever communication she had to make to the coroner by a confession of my own suspicions and what they had led me into. If he laughed—well, I could stand it. It was not the coroner's laugh nor even the major's that I feared. It was Durbin's.

CHAPTER X.

JINNY had not been gone an hour from the coroner's office when an opportunity was afforded for me to approach that gentleman myself.

With few apologies and no preamble I immediately entered upon my story, which I made as concise and as much to the point as possible. I did not expect praise from him, but I did look for some slight show of astonishment at the nature of my news. I was therefore greatly disappointed when after a moment's quiet consideration he carelessly remarked:

"Very good, very good! The one point you make is excellent and may prove of use to us. We had reached the same conclusion, but by another road. You ask, 'Who blew out the candle?' We, 'Who tied the pistol to Mrs. Jeffrey's arm?' It could not have been tied by herself. Who was her accessory, then? Ah, you didn't think of that."

I flushed as if a pail of hot water had been dashed suddenly over me. He was right. The conclusion he spoke of had failed to strike me. Why? It was a perfectly obvious one, as obvious as that the candle had been blown out by another breath than hers; yet, absorbed in my own train of thought, I had completely overlooked it. The coroner, observing my embarrassment, smiled, and my humiliation was complete, or would have been had Durbin been there, but fortunately he was not.

"I am a fool," I cried. "I thought I had discovered something. I might have known that there were keener minds than mine in this office"—

"Easy—easy," was the good natured interruption. "You have done well. If I did not think so I would not keep you here a minute. As it is, I am disposed to let you see that in a case like this one man must not expect to monopolize all the honors. This matter of the bow of ribbon would strike any old and experienced official. I only wonder that we have not seen it openly discussed in the papers."

Taking a box from his desk, he opened it and held it out toward me. A coil of white ribbon surmounted by a crisp and dainty bow met my eyes.

"You recognize it?" he asked.

Indeed I did.

"It was cut from her wrist by my deputy. Miss Tuttle wished him to untie it, but he preferred to leave the bow intact. Now lift it out. Careful, man; don't soil it. You will see why in a minute." As I held the ribbon up he pointed to some spots on its fresh white surface. "Do you see those?" he asked. "Those are dust marks, and they were made as truly by some one's fingers as the impressions you noted on the mantelshelf in the upper chamber. This pistol was tied to her wrist after the deed; possibly by that same hand."

It was my own conclusion, but it did not sound as welcome to me from his lips as I had expected. Either my nature is narrow or my inordinate jealousy lays me open to the most astonishing inconsistencies, for no sooner had he spoken these words than I experienced a sudden revulsion against my own theory and the suspicions which it threw upon the man whom an hour before I was eager to proclaim a criminal.

But Coroner Z. gave me no chance for making such a fool of myself. Rescuing the ribbon from my hands, which no doubt were running a little too freely over its snowy surface, he smiled with the indulgence proper from such a man to a novice like myself and observed quite frankly:

"You will consider these observations as confidential. You know how to hold your tongue; that you have proved. Hold it, then, a little longer. The case is not yet ripe. Mr. Jeffrey is a man of high standing, with a hitherto unblemished reputation. It won't do, my boy, to throw the doubt of so hideous a crime upon so fine a gentleman without ample reason. That no such mistake may be made and that he may have every opportunity for clearing himself I am going to have a confidential talk with him. Do you want to be present?"

I flushed again, but this time from extreme satisfaction.

"I am obliged for your confidence," said I. Then, with a burst of courage born of his good nature, I inquired, with due respect, if my little friend had answered his expectations. "Was she as clever as I said?" I asked.

"Your little friend is a trump," was his blunt reply. "With what we have learned through her, and now through you, we can approach Mr. Jeffrey to some purpose. It appears that before leaving the house on that Tuesday morning he had an interview with his wife which ought in some way to account for this tragedy. Perhaps he will tell us about it, and perhaps he will explain how he came to wander through the Moore house while his wife lay dying below. At all events, we will give him the opportunity to do so and if possible to clear up mysteries which provoke the worst kind of conjecture. It is time. The ideas advanced by the papers foster superstition, and superstition is the devil. Go and tell my man out there that I am going to K street. You may say 'we' if you like," he added, with a humor more welcome to me than any serious concession.

Did I feel set up by this? Rather.

Mr. Jeffrey was expecting us. This was evident from his first look, though the attempt he made at surprise was instantaneous and very well feigned. Indeed, I think he was in a constant state of apprehension during these days and that no inroad of the police would have astonished him. But expectation does not preclude dread—indeed, it tends to foster it—and dread was in his heart. This he had no power to conceal.

"To what am I indebted for this second visit from you?" he asked of Coroner Z., with an admirable presence of mind. "Are you not yet satisfied with what we have been able to tell you of my poor wife's unhappy end?"

"We are not," was the plain response. "There are some things you have not attempted to explain, Mr. Jeffrey—for instance, why you went to the Moore house previous to your being called there by the death of your wife."

It was a shot that told, an arrow which found its mark. Mr. Jeffrey flushed, then turned pale, rallied and again lost himself in a maze of conflicting emotions, from which he only emerged to say:

"How do you know that I was there? Have I said so, or do those old walls babble in their sleep?"

"Old walls have been known to do this," was the grave reply. "Whether they had anything to say in this case is at present quite immaterial. That you were where I charge you with being is evident from your own manner. May I then ask if you have anything to say about this visit? When a person has died under such peculiar circumstances as Mrs. Jeffrey, everything bearing upon the case is of interest to the coroner."

"Mrs. Jeffrey's death was a strange one," her husband admitted, with tardy self control. "I find myself as much at a loss to understand it as you do and am therefore quite ready to answer the question you have so openly broached; not that my answer has any bearing upon the point you wish to make, but because it is your due and my pleasure. I did visit the Moore house, as I certainly had every right to do. The property was my wife's, and it was for my interest to learn if I could the secret of its many crimes."

"Ah!"

Mr. Jeffrey looked quickly up. "You think that an odd thing for me to do?"

"At night—yes."

"Night is the time for such work. I did not care to be seen pottering around there in daylight."

"No? Yet it would have been so much easier. You would not have had to buy candles or carry a pistol or"—

"I did not carry a pistol. The only pistol carried there was the one with which my demented wife chose to take her life. I do not understand this allusion."

"It grew out of a misunderstanding of the situation, Mr. Jeffrey. Excuse me if I supposed you would be likely to provide yourself with some means of defense in venturing alone upon the scene of so many mysterious deaths."

"I took no precaution."

"And needed none, I suppose."

"And needed none."

"When was this visit paid, Mr. Jeffrey—before or after your wife pulled the trigger which ended her life? You need not hesitate to answer."

"I do not." The elegant gentleman before us had acquired a certain fierceness. "Why should I? Certainly you don't think that I was there at the same time she was. It was not on the same night even. So much the walls should have told you and probably did, or my wife's uncle, Mr. David Moore. Was he not your informant?"

"No. Mr. Moore has failed to call our attention to this fact. Did you meet Mr. Moore during the course of your visit to a neighborhood over which he seems to hold absolute sway?"

"Not to my knowledge. But his house is directly opposite, and as he has little to do but amuse himself with what he can see from his front window I concluded that he might have observed me going in."

"You entered by the front door, then?"

"How else?"

"And on what night?"

Mr. Jeffrey made an effort. These questions were visibly harassing him.

"The night before the one—the one which—ended all my earthly happiness," he added in a low voice.

Coroner Z. cast a glance at me. I remembered the lack of dust on the nest of little tables from which the upper one had been drawn forward to hold the candelabrum and gently shook my head. The coroner's eyebrows went up, but none of his disbelief crept into his voice as he made this additional statement:

"The night on which you failed to return to your own house."

Instantly Mr. Jeffrey betrayed by a nervous action, which was quite involuntary, that his outward calm was slowly giving way under a fire of questions for which he had no ready reply.

"It was odd your not going home that night," the coroner coldly pursued. "The misunderstanding you had with your wife immediately after breakfast must have been a very serious one, more serious than you have hitherto acknowledged."

"I had rather not discuss the subject," protested Mr. Jeffrey. Then as if he suddenly recognized the official character of his interlocutor he hastily added, "Unless you positively request me to do so, in which case I must."

"I am afraid that I must insist upon it," returned the other. "You will find that it will be insisted upon at the inquest, and if you do not wish to subject yourself to much unnecessary unpleasantness you had better make clear to us today the cause of that special quarrel which to all intents and purposes led to your wife's death."

"I will try to do so," returned Mr. Jeffrey, rising and pacing the room in his intense restlessness. "We did have some words. Her conduct the night before had not pleased me. I am naturally jealous, vilely jealous, and I

$500 REWARD FOR WOMEN

WHO CANNOT BE CURED.

Backed up by over a third of a century of remarkable and uniform cures, a record such as no other remedy for the diseases and weaknesses peculiar to women ever attained, the proprietors and makers of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription now feel fully warranted in offering to pay $500 in legal money of the United States, for any case of Leucorrhea, Female Weakness, Prolapsus, or Falling of Womb which they cannot cure. All they ask is a fair and reasonable trial of their means of cure.

"There are thousands of sick women dragging out a weary, miserable existence, who would be well and happy did they but have my experience with Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription," writes Mrs. Annie Leuman, of 106 Jackson St., Atlanta, Ga. "Four years ago I was nearly dead with inflammation and ulceration. I endured daily untold agony, and life was a burden to me. I had used medicines internally and externally until I had made up my mind that there was no relief in sight for me. A friend of mine endorsed your 'Favorite Prescription,' and I determined then to give it a trial. It took patience and perseverance for I was in a bad condition, and had to use your medicine for nearly four months before I was cured, but what a change it brought; from despair to happiness, from misery to the delightful, exhilarating feeling that only health brings. I would not change back for a thousand dollars. Your 'Prescription' is a grand medicine. I wish every sick woman would only try it and be convinced."

He should have shuffled off at the beginning.

A great many business men today are committing business suicide at the wrong end of their lives

They mean well at the start, but drift away from their good resolutions.

One means of a long and prosperous business life is to have good printing and stationery.

A business is judged by its printed matter.

A SUMMER AFFAIR.

with sense might have at would happen If you put attractive girls in one summer cot- across the lake and after a couple eeks of Adamless existence—ex- for the small boys and the middle- land owner who spent his sum- there with his family—you sud- brought two eligible young men ts at the next cottage you might tty sure those girls would not heir time reading novels. For, se, the young men would begin lering what to do to amuse ves.

is no doubt that Harkness and had a good time that week-end noeuvred shamelessly to get ask- er the next Friday. Being engag- youths, their hostess was glad to e them come again. There is noth- ng that so adds to woman's popularity at a summer resort as controlling the visible supply of young men. So Mrs. Smith knew very well why it was that the Jones girls suddenly showered her with magazines, came over to be taught embroidery stitches and asked her to go sailing. She repaid them by giving Harkness and Phelps a standing invitation to come whenever they could.

By the time their vacation periods arrived and they stayed three weeks they were decidedly good friends of the Jones girls The other young women at the resort who had arrived later were outclassed and had to put up with the schoolboys. The middle-aged land owner was unavailable, because his wife was argus-eyed and his children clung to him like barnacles. The Jones girls paraded their captives heartlessly before the rest of the young women and safely, because they were the prettiest, brightest girls there. The others gnashed their teeth, figuratively speaking. What they really did was to toss their heads and pretend the preferred schoolboys.

The Jones girls were having a beautiful time and every one at the resort was calculating how Harkness and Phelps were going to decide which each preferred. The other girls said that of course the poor men had no chance to escape with such a barefaced attack on their hearts in progress and wondered how they stood it. The schoolboys, in spite of their popularity with the majority, after masculine custom, sighed yearningly for the minority, who snubbed them and went sailing, dancing and fishing with Harkness and Phelps. The mothers of the outclassed majority did fancy work on the piazzas and confided to one another their disapproval of the giddiness of the Jones girls. The whole place was expectantly waiting the announcement of the double engagement.

Then Dorothy arrived. Dorothy was everything that her name implied. She was 20, rose faced, dewyeyed, garbed in delightful fluffy things and as picturesque as the veriest stage ingenue. She had a way of looking wide-eyed into the face of any one talking to her that was calculated, if one was of the masculine persuasion, to give his heart an attack of somersaults. Harkness and Phelps developed a fondness for this form of cardiac gymnastics.

Of course, it was gradual—that is, three days is gradual for a summer resort. But in that time the fact was made clear that the two available young men had changed allegiance and were the devoted slaves of Dorothy, in the third cottage but one. Of course, the Jones girls were not dropped—Harkness and Phelps were above that—but they were now merely included. The Jones girls at first, noticing their slaves' fascination, had had the idea that they were including Dorothy as a clever flank movement; but they soon realized that it was the other way. They smiled on Dorothy sweetly, after the fashion of thoroughbreds, but they knew when the ax fell.

The other girls and their mothers said it served the Jones girls right and began rubbing it in by asking them to go on expeditions where the schoolboys were the only attendants. Dorothy herself took affairs as a matter of course. If in her guileless heart she realized what she had done there was no hint of it in her irresistible face. Harkness and Phelps had been devoted to the Jones girls in a wholesouled way, but in this case there was no doubt that they were seriously hit. In a week they were bowing curtly to each other in public and ignoring each other in private.

Dorothy kept on appearing in fluffier organdies and more distracting ruffled sunbonnets and the Jones girls took to trolley trips to town to escape from the sight of the abject servitude of their erstwhile adorers. At least that is what the other girls said. Nobody knew whether the two heroes of the drama had really proposed to Dorothy or not.

One day she knocked everyone flat, so to speak, by bringing on the scene a new man from Chicago and announced that she was engaged to him. There was no doubt about it from the way he calmly took possession of her and froze out Harkness and Phelps. Then the summer resort turned around again and said it served Harkness and Phelps right.

After a few days of glumness and solitary fishing trips to readjust their minds Harkness and Phelps came to their senses. They made sincere attempts to make it up with the Jones girls. They explained that they couldn't imagine why they had been such idiots.

The Jones girls regarded them serenely and said neither could they—but, unfortunately, they were leaving next day for the seashore. And they did.

AFTERMATH OF THE BIG PICNIC.

The Shooting Contest at Hecla Park.

The trap shooting contest for a double barrelled shot gun, of the "Stevens" make at Hecla Park on Business Men's Picnic Day, was engaged in by members of the Lock Haven Gun Club and a picked team from Centre County. The Centre County team were H. C. Quigley, Bellefonte, George Uzzle, James Uzzle, David Chambers, C. H. Watson, Snow Shoe and William Zimmerman of near Zion. The Lock Haven club were George Shade, Charles Kidd, Charles Jobson, Thomas McClellan, Harry Shroat and George Monaghan. Philip S. Kift, of Lock Haven, was referee. The gun was won by Centre County by 14 points. The following was the score.

Watson	20
Uzzle, Geo.	18
Quigley	17
Chambers	16
Uzzle, Jas.	14
Zimmerman	13
Total	98
Shade	20
Kidd	17
Jobson	15
McClellan	13
Shroat	11
Monaghan	8
Total	84

The Centre county team then shot off for the individual ownership of the gun which was won by William Zimmerman, by making 7, 7 and 9 points out of ten,

At the conclusion of the game the Lock Haven club extended an invitation to the Centre county people to have another contest for a prize, on the Gun club grounds at Lock Haven, at some near future time.

PICNIC NOTES.

Henry C. Quigley Esq., umpired the base ball game and gave excellent satisfaction.

Frank Warfield, the genial general passenger agent of the Central Railroad, was unable to attend the big picnic owing to sickness and thus failed to see the great success with which his efforts were crowned.

The weather man always smiles propitiously on the Business Men's picnic.

The mystic wonder, the refreshment booth, and the other side attractions all did a good business.

A vast sea of fact's spread out before the platform during the ministrel performance and from a distance they seemed so close together as to put one in mind of the seeds on a large sunflower.

Refreshment lane on the opposite side of the railroad from the park was an interesting place to visit. Dozens of stands and wagons dispensed eatables and drinkables of every character, and at the farther end long tables were placed under shelter, where good meals were furnished to hundreds at 25 and 50 cents.

Men, women and children are eligible to membership. It was organized for the benefit of children only, with the intention of educating and elevating the minds of the young from lessons set down by the merry Woggie Bug and his followers, the Tin Woodman, the Scare-crow and Jack Pumpkinhead. Parents who wished to investigate the society before allowing the children to join, have insisted upon becoming members also, and, since it was decided to admit all, it is hard to tell who are the most enthusiastic. One thing sure, they all laugh alike and don't have to leave home to do it, either. If you are not ready to join yourself now, see that your children become members, and you will be sure to come in later. No charges for membership fee. Rocks for Young Men to Build On.

Be decided. Be positive. Do not belong to the innumerable class contemptuously described as "half-way people." The way to be decided is to be well informed. People are positive about what they thoroughly understand. And it is the proper business of every man in the world to know all about the business he is engaged in, and everything pertaining to it, otherwise disappointment and failure are his certain lot.

In matters of principle no man has any apology for ever being undecided. There is no half way ground in them. It is easy to know what is right and what is wrong. You have to choose between the two. One or the other you must take. Have you any doubt of which? Of course you cannot have. Why, then, hesitate or appear to be in a state of indecision?

People work with you far more satisfactorily, far more cheerfully, far more earnestly and enthusiastically if they find you are a positive person and know just what you are about and what you are going to do. The whole world likes strong characters. And yet such characters are as simple as they are rare. But one quality is common to them all; they are positive and decided. Those who are as unstable as water shall no more excel now than they could excel in the times when the scriptures were written. Knowledge, courage and conscience—these are the three pre-requisities to positiveness and decision of character.

Solid rocks, too, they are; a good foundation for young men to build on.

Fitzpatrick—Harter.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Snyder, 1442 Bald Eagle avenue Tyrone at ten o'clock Monday evening, Patrick John Fitzpatrick, of Tyrone, and Miss Eva Mary Harter, of Millheim, Centre county, were united in marriage, William F. Taylor, Esq., performing the ceremony. There was only a small company of friends present, among the number Charles M. Gillam, of Philipsburg, Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Owens, of Tyrone. The affair was quiet and unpretentious, but it was a joyous occasion for the little party of people gathered together as principals and witnesses of the nuptial ceremony. The bride was handsomely gowned in brown crepe de chine and the groom appeared in conventional black. The home where the ceremony was performed was appropriately prepared for the occasion and the surroundings were of the kind that make for pleasure and comfort.

The groom is a young Tyrone business man of many years standing, his trade being that of tailoring. He is popular with his associates. His bride is also popular, and well fitted for the new role she has assumed.

Tuesday morning the happy couple left Tyrone on Pacific express west for Punxsutawney, where they will establish a home, Mr. Fitzpatrick having purchased a lunch car which he will conduct at that place.—Tyrone Herald.

FIRE AT HOWARD.

Creamery Caught Fire Monday Morning---Totally Destroyed.

Our pretty little neighboring town of Howard lost a valuable industry Monday morning when the Howard creamery, owned and operated by D. R. Wilson caught fire and was burned to the ground. The loss is complete and is placed at $1500 with no insurance. The fire was undoubtedly of incendiary origin. It started at 2:40 o'clock this morning and in spite of the excellent work of the Howard fire department it soon was a mass of smouldering ashes.

This is the second or third time that the creamery at Howard has been destroyed by fire.. The one just destroyed was built last April.

We are authorized to say that the creamery will be re-built at once and be ready for operation within the next four weeks The building will be of brick this time and equipped with all the latest machinery.

MAN AND WIFE FIFTY YEARS.

Mr. and Mrs. Moses Klein Celebrate Golden Wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Moses Klein, of 2451 North Nineteenth street celebrated their golden wedding Wednesday Aug. 17, with a family reunion that brought together members of their family from distant parts of tae county. Mr. Klein is a musician, and has gained some fame throughout the state.

The pair were married in Bellefonte, where they resided for some time before removing to Philadelphia.

Besides their eight children, the couple have thirteen grandchildren, who were present at the celebration.

A New Diocese.

The Rev. George I. Browne. Rector of St. John's church, Bellefonte, is expected on Saturday 27th, to spend Sunday the 28th inst., and two days following, with the Rector of St. Paul's church, in a canvas for increase of the Endowment Fund of the proposed new diocese. The General Convention of the Protestant Episcopal church which is to meet in Boston, Mass., on the 5th of October next, will doubtless consent to the erection of a new diocese, consisting of the two Archdeaconries of Williamsport and Harrisburg. Organization and the election of a Bishop, will speedily follow; and all members of the church, and its friends and adherents will need to help on the evangelization and extension of its work.—Philipsburg Journal.

Bellefonte Castle K. G. E. Will go to Lewisburg.

The Susquehanna District of the Knights of the Golden Eagle will meet in convention on Labor Day September 5 at Lewisburg and it promises to be the largest gathering of the kind held by this order for several years. The Bellefonte Castle will attend accompanied by the famous Coleville band. They will leave Bellefonte on the regular train at 6:40 a. m. Monday and returning leave Lewisburg at 7 p. m. They will be joined by Spring Mills and Millheim Castles. There will be excursions rates on the Pennsylvania road.

Bought Many Sheep,

C. K. Sober, Lewisburg's widely known and wealthy sportsman, will endeavor to promote a sheep ranch on his large farm in Irish Valley, near Shamokin. A few days ago he made a trip to Buffalo where he purchased 500 head of sheep, which were shipped to the farm and he intends later to purchase another consignment of the same number to be harbored on the place His Irish Valley farm with its fine blooded stock cattle and horses along with the famous culture of the Paragon chestnuts, is one of the model places in the state. Mr. Sober has spared no expense in improving the land the buildings are all of modern design and furnished with all conveniences. The culture of sheep he will give close attention.

W. M. Cronister Injured.

Our fellow townsman and former sheriff of Centre county, W. M. Cronister, met with quite a painful accident on his farm at Martha Furnace.

Mr. Cronister was inspecting a binder to which four horses were hitched, when the two lead horses started ahead catching Mr. Cronister in the machinery, severally bruising and breaking the skin on his arms and legs. It has been learned that the injuries are not of a serious nature, and with the exception of the soreness which exists from the accident. Mr. Cronister is all right and able to be around.

To the City Fathers.

Do the City Fathers notice when they walk abroad, the condition of things along our side walks? Many of the streets are bordered with a rank growth of Canada thistle and all sorts of unsightly and injurious weeds. Is there not a law forbidding it, and can't it be carried out? Our streets are a disgrace to us in this respect. An Observer.

The Bellefonte A. C. Beaten by the Snow Shoe Base Ball Team.

(By "Dryden" Kelley.)

The Snow Shoe base ball team trounced the B. A. C. at Snow Shoe on Saturday Aug. 20th by the score of 22 to 6 in favor of S. S. with the help of pitcher Harrington and fielder Quirk of the C. T. A. team. Brown the first man up for Bellefonte hit to Walker and put out at first. Fulton next and made a nice hit to left field but Harrington struck the next two men out, so, Bellefonte did not make any scores in their half of the first. Snow Shoe scored one in their half of the first. Bellefonte did not get any in the second and Snow Shoe got one. In the third came a drizzling rain but they kept at it and Snow Shoe got six runs across the pan while Bellefonte where not able to get any men further than second base. Miller was the first man up in the fourth for Bellefonte and he hit the ball and he must of hit it on the wet side for the rain came down in torrents, than all the players ran for shelter and did not show themselves for 20 minutes, while the water poured making the Base Ball field more like a mud hole than a base ball field. Then they went back at it in the mud. Miller stole second, Kane struck out, and Miller went to third on Peters hitting to Walker and Walker throwing the ball wide to Griffin and he fumbled. Peters second and Blair and Hugg both got base on ball scoring Miller. Scull and Brown the next two men up struck out retiring the side Snow Shoe then came to bat and pounded in five runs. But they still kept at it in the mud and rain. Park producing the hot air for Snow Shoe, and Scott throwing it out for Bellefonte, but it got to much for them in the seventh and they decided to quit, both sides being ready when the word came to call it off. Hugg was first up in the seventh and hit fly to Griffin, and Scull and Brown struck out.

Leathers was first up for Snow Shoe and hit to right field and went to second on Parks hit to left field, each moved up a base on a wild pitch, Leathers scored on a pass ball and Park went to third, and scored on a pass ball, but the ball was so wet and muddy that they could not throw it. Harrington got a pass to first, Griffin was next up and went out to Hugg, Hugg throwing to Scott putting out Harrington. Sam Budinger was next up and put out at first. Then the game ended at the end of the seventh inning.

*Fulton out hit by batted ball.

Stolen bases: Park, S. Budinger, Miller, Fulton and Peters; Two base Hits: Quirk 3, Walker, Park; Struck out by Harrington 13, by Scull 2, by Fulton 3; Wild Pitch, Fulton 1; Pass Ball, Miller 2, Park 1; Base on Balls off Harrington 3; Time 2:15, Umpire Burns.

Pitcher Harrington pitched a nice game for Snow Shoe stricking out thirteen men. Scull did good work while he was in the box for five innings and Fulton in the Sixth shut Snow Shoe out and in the seventh the Ball was so wet he could not do any thing with it, but while on second he played a fine game having five assists. Scott at first played a nice game and he and Kane in left field are the funny part of the team.

Street Gadders.

The race is not always to the swift but it is much more likely to go to the swift than to the street corner ornament. There is some hope for a horse thief, a burglar or a politician, but none whatever for a dead beat. We never could see a ray of hope for the young man who wears the soles of his shoes through while shuffling along the streets with a cigarette in his mouth and a leer on his face. There is no sort of a show in this world for a girl whose whole business in life is to put on all the showy duds she can get and then eternally gad the streets to try to get men to look at her. It takes brains and brains have to be developed by hard study. It takes muscle and muscle must be developed by hard work, It takes taste and taste can only be cultivated by choosing. It takes good manners and manners can never come to those who will wait on the streets. The boy who sticks to his job and the girl who thinks more of her home than to be flirting with every dirty manikin she meets are the winners in the race for earth prizes.

Lock Haven Wins From C. T. A. Team by one String.

By "Dryden" Kelley.

Pathetic scenes usually accompany the defeat of a strong base ball team, when the shouting hundreds wend their way from the ball ground, and the scene that follow would bring tears to the stout hearted, they are truly scenes of heart interest that occur in the players dressing rooms after a hard fought game, but such was not the case, when the strong Lock Haven team came to Snow Shoe on Wednesday Aug. 17th and defeated the C. T. A., team for it was a hard fought game and everybody was satisfied with it, saying that they expected to see the game go around or more than nine innings. Lock Haven said it was the hardest game they played this season. Neither side scored until the third inning, when Holmes came to bat and was hit, Schrader passing Milliner and Walker, filling the bases. Bressler was next up and he made a nice hit to left field scoring Holmes and Milliner. Miller struck out and Walker scored on Monigan's out at first, then Bressler tried to steal third, but Plubell shot the ball to Burns and he nubbed Bressler retiring the side, then the score stood 3 to 0 in favor of Lock Haven until the sixth, when Miller made a three bagger and scored on Holmes out at first, making the score 4 to 0. The C. T. A., did not score until the seventh. Pat Quirk made a hit, went second on Kelley's out at first, and two third on Plubell's out at first. Schrader was next up and made a two bagger. Kelley then ran for Schrader stole third and scored on F. Burns hit. Casher got to first and Dick Burns skied to Holmes retiring the side. In the eight McGrorty crossed the pan making the score 3 to 4 in favor of Lock Haven. Neither side scored any more runs.

The C. T. A., played an errorless game, something that no team has done in Snow Shoe for years, and Lock Haven had only two errors, one of them being costly. Had it not been for a man hit and two passes in the 3rd inning, the game would of been 3 to 1 in favor of C. T. A. Schrader pitched a fine game striking out ten men and having four assists. Capt. Bressler at second for Lock Haven who is a brother of Pitcher Bressler of the Williamsport club played a fine game in his corner, and Kidd who wore a Watsontown uniform, having had a chance with that team but did not make good played a fine game at third for Lock Haven. Dick Burns of the C. T. A., team made to fine stops and caught a hard foul fly. The score:

Encampment and Fair.

This great Fair will be held at Centre Hall, September 17th to 23rd, inclusive. It is under the management of farmers, as agricultural fairs should be; it has been successful for thirty years; it has collected no fees at the gates—admission as free as the air—yet with its own resources the management has paid for the ground and improvements, and now continues to offer to the public a free exhibition. Where has any fair been so successfully and liberally managed? Will the merchants, manufacturers and dealers now meet the farmers and join with them in making this the best and largest fair ever held at Grange Park?

Let every farmer bring grain, fruit and farm stock, every merchant his wares, and every dealer his implements. If you will do this you will do honor to the community, to the valley, and to the county. You will also show your appreciation and good will to the association that has established a great free institution in your midst. And why should not the farmers, like other classes, take a few days off, to camp out for recreation, why not encourage the farmers by other classes camping with them, and thus have a grand and profitable time.

Strengthening the Bridges.

The work of strengthening the two river bridges, between Antes Fort and Jersey Shore-Antes Fort Railway company within a very short time and promises to be a good sized job, says the Jersey Shore Herald The company will be compelled to put in heavier side rods and braces, a 15-inch steel girder to run entire length of bridge, and 8-inch steel cross beams to take the place of the wooden ones.

THE RUSSIAN—JAP WAR!

Latest News from the Far East—Japs Still After Port Authur.

LONDON, August 19.—The Express prints the following dispatch from its correspondent at Tokio:

"I am informed that the Mikado has received from the commander of his forces at Port Arthur the Russian General's reply to the Imperial demand for the surrender of the forces.

"In his reply Lieutenant General Stoessel expresses his thanks for the humanitarian offer to grant safe conduct to all non-combatants with the Russian lines.

"The demand to surrender Stoessel refuses uncompromisingly, and declares his garrison will fight to the last man in defense of the fortress."

Chefoo, Aug. 19.—Reports received here Thursday say that the condition of the beleaguered garrison is hourly becoming more desperate.

Japanese mortars and big guns are spreading death and destruction, and, to add to the horror, fires are raging in several quarters.

Exploding shells have ignited coal in barges and building, and it is feared that, should the flames spread sufficiently to reach the stores of powder and ammunition, the final assault of the Japanese will find the Russians unable to defend themselves.

The lines of the besiegers are narrowing rapidily. They have captured positions within two miles of the defenses and boasts that the fortress will be taken in five days.

The defenders are still doggedly determined to fight to the last, and, while they admit that they must capitulate eventually, they claim to be able to make a successful resistance for two months.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 19—The report that General Stoessel, the Russian commander at Port Arthur, declined to capitulate in response to the Japanese summons creates no surprise. The War Office would have been amazed if he had yielded.

CHEFOO, August 20.—Chinese who embarked from Liao Tien Shan promontory at 11 o'clock Thursday morning report the continuance of heavy fighting. They say the Japanese have occupied Pigeon Bay and are within striking distance of the Liao Tien Shan forts, which however, are still occupied by the Russians.

According to the Chinese the Russians at Port Arthur are making their final stand.

RUSSIA HAS ONE HOPE.

ST. PETERSBURG, August 20.—Acute anxiety prevails regarding the situation at Port Arthur on account of the desperate character of the fighting reported as taking place there, though the War Office does not seem to believe that the danger of the fall of the fortress is so imminent as is generally asserted. According to advices received by the War Office, there is still an ample supply of ammunition and provisions there.

FOR A DEATH STRUGGLE

Upon one point there is absolute unanimity here, namely, that if the fortress falls the fleet will not fall into the hands of the Japanese. On this point, the Admiralty's instructions are of the most imperative character. Vice-Admiral Prince Ouktomsky has been ordered, should the worst come, to sally forth for a death struggle, and there is no question here that these instructions will be carried out both in letter and spirit, but if for any reason a final sortie proves to be impossible, the Admiral is to destroy his ships to make certain that their wreckage shall be absolutely irreparable.

THE BALTIC SQUADRON.

In the meantime, Vice-Admiral Rojestvensky's Baltic squadron, including the new battleship Orel, is standing off Cronstadt with steam up. It is popularly expected that the squadron will sail at any hour and it is quite true that it is ready for almost immediate departure, but regarding the question of sailing there is a difference of opinion among the naval authorities.

It is held in one hand that the immediate sailing of the squadron would be the best policy, on the theory that should it arrive within two months it would find Vice-Admiral Togo's fleet in an infinitely worse condition than if the Japanese were allowed the whole winter to repair and refit the ships.

The advocates of an immediate sailing hold that the port of Vladivostok is capable of receiving the squadron even should entrance to Port Arthur prove to be impracticable, and they wish to treat the Port Arthur squadron for the present as a negligible quantity, letting the Baltic Sea vessels meet the Japanese squadron in its present weakness.

Other officials hold that it would be unwise to risk sending the Baltic Sea squadron to the Far East until the situation at Port Arthur has been cleared up and until it is known what conditions the squadron would be likely to find on its arrival.

ST. PAUL, August 22.—Death to twelve persons, injuries to many others and destruction to property both private and public, estimated in a round number at $1,000,000, resulted from a furious gale which tore down the valley of the Mississippi at about 9 o'clock Sunday night from a point somewhere near the confluence of the Minnesota and Missouri rivers near Fort Snelling. At about that point the fury of the elements seemingly divided and with a roar descended on the twin cities and their environs.

STORM SWEPT ALL IN ITS PATHWAY

Beginning at a point below Fort Snelling, there is the first known evidence that the storm struck with damaging effect. It came from the southwest, howling in its fury, uprooted trees, demolished buildings in its path toward St. Paul.

It tore off two spans of the high bridge as completely as if they had been unbolted from the rest of the structure and carried away by workmen. There the bridge connected with the high bluffs, at West St. Paul and it is 180 feet above the river. This mass of steel was carried to the flats below, where flying steel girders and heavy planks fell on several small frame houses of the flat dwellers and crushed them completely. None of the occupants of these houses was hurt, but having seen the storm coming, took refuge in caves in the hillside, where they were safe.

WHERE THE TORNADO STRUCK ST. PAUL

The storm tore along the flats, uprooting trees on Harriet Island and then struck this city at the Wabasha street bridge.

Underneath the debris of the Tivoli were found when the storm had passed the mangled bodies of Loran F. Hokanson, one of the employes in the Concert hall, and George Kwenton, one of the audience.

The storm then rushed on to the northeast, over the wholesale district, and here the greatest destruction of property was wrought.

PASSED ALONG INTO MINNEAPOLIS SUBURBS

After causing havoc in St. Paul the tornado swept onward to Minneapolis and its suburbs. Here, however, the destruction of property was not so great, although telephone and telegraph wires were torn down in great numbers. For hours the twin cities were cut off from any communication with the outside world.

Of the twelve fatalities, three of the victims met death in St. Paul, four at Wacounia, a small stations near Minneapolis and three at St. Louis park, a suburb of Minneapolis.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 23—A dispatch from Che Foo dated Aug. 22, says that according to Chinese reports the Japanese yesterday bombarded Port Arthur from 6 o'clock in the morning until 1 o'clock in the afternoon, pouring in a heavy fire, but the Russians succeeded in silencing the Japanese batteries.

The Japanese fleet was not engaged having put further out to sea.

MEETING OF THE FOREIGN CONSULS

Shanghai, Aug. 22.—John Goodnow, the American Consul General, who is dean of the Consular Corps, presided at the meeting of the foreign Consuls held here yesterday. All foreign countries with consulates here were represented. M. Odagiri, the Japanese Consul, and M. Kleinmenoff, the Russian Consul, were in attendance.

M. Odagiri left a sick bed to attend the meeting. He made a vigorous protest against the Russian cruiser Askold and the torpedo boat destroyer Grozovoi in Shanghai harbor and declared that China had failed in her duties as a neutral power. He asserted that the Japanese had the right to take the independent step of entering the harbor and seizing the two vessels. The attitude of M. Odagiri was warlike and uncompromising.

MATTER REFERRED TO PEKIN.

M. Kleinmenoff protested against the entering of the harbor yesterday by a Japanese torpedo boat destroyer and insisted upon the right of the two Russian warships in question to remain and repair damage. A suggestion made by the British Consul to refer the entire matter to Peking was adopted. In the meantime the work on the Askold is to cease for 48 hours and no further steps are to be taken by the Consuls who will await instructions from their respective Governments.

CHINA MUST NOT SHIRK DUTY.

It was unanimously decided by the Consuls that China cannot shirk her responsibility as a neutral state by handing this matter over to the Consuls for adjustment.

Neither Rear-Admiral Stirling U. S. N., nor Consul Goodnow has been instructed by Washington as to what course to pursue.

Consul Goodnow has done his utmost to bring about a peaceful settlement and he has full confidence of the foreign residents in the matter of protecting the settlements in case the Japanese should attack the Askold and Grozovoi.

The British fleet is expected to reach here to-morrow.

A Helpless Child.

A weak and puny child is badly handicapped in the battle of life. It is isolated from the healthy enjoyments of its little fellow-beings. It cannot partake either of their play or their sturdy work and progress in the world; its whole life is embittered by incapacity and weakness.

Any woman who expects to become a mother ought to know what Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will do both for her own health and safety during her time of trial and also to insure her in bequeathing a fair measure of health and strength to the prospective little one.

Wesley Bickett and E. T. Vail, after making a tour through a couple of our states, returned rather suddenly and reported a pleasant time.

Since the telephone boys have left this place, all you hear among our girls is "Curly" (which as near as we can understand, is a nickname for one of their most popular workmen.) But our boys think that if he comes around here again he will not be quite so popular. That might all be too!

The ball game's between the Moshannon and Telephone boys, last Friday, scored ten to twelve, in favor of Moshannon in the forenoon, and that of the afternoon, not being completed, on account of the telephone boys having to make the 5:13 train for home, we can hardly give the result, but think it would have resulted the same as in the forenoon. However, to do the telephone boys justice, they did beat our's completely before these last two games were played.

Miss Mary Lomison, who is taking a course in stenography at Williamsport Commercial College, is home for vacation.

SNOW SHOE

—Camp Moshannon.

This is a forest delightful. The murmuring pines and the hemlocks,
Bearded with moss, and in garments green, indistinct in the twilight,
Stand like Druids of old, with voices sad and prophetic,
Stand like harpers hoar, with beards that rest on their bosoms.
Anon from its rocky shores the deep-voiced neighboring river
Speaks, and in accents disconsolate answers the wail of the forest.
—by Longfellow—(?)

Talk about eating! "Dandy" took first prize with Bob a close second The former gent is to be labeled,—"Established 18—. Carried off highest award at Moshannon—Susquehanna Exposition 1904."

Mr. Jno D. Brown is entertaining a number of friends from a distance.

On Monday afternoon an extremely unfortunate accident befell a Hungarian who was hit by a base ball while he was waiting at the Penns. P. R. station to go away on the 2:30 train. From time immemorial, almost, it has been the custom of all the base ball enthusiasts to use the road between the depot and drug store to practice on a limited scale. It was, of course, a very dangerous and unwise thing to do as passers-by, especially women and children, run great risks of being hit. It was on Monday afternoon, as above stated, and shortly before two o'clock that a number of young fellows were batting "flies" toward the station, when a bee-liner, straight from the bat, struck the Hungarian (John Segedy by name), who had been sitting on the station platform, on the side of the face and nose. His nose immediately started to bleed in a frightful manner, and, there being no doctor in town, Sickel, the druggist, was called and he with the assistance of Ray Gilliland was, after considerable difficulty, successful in getting the flow of blood checked. As it was now nearly train time Mr. Sickle urged that he be taken in to Bellefonte to the hospital where he could secure proper treatment, but the patient would not consent to be moved. However there would probably have been no further trouble until the doctor came home at least, had not the man disturbed the bandages thus starting the bleeding afresh. This continued until nearly five o'clock, when things began to look rather alarming as his pulse had ceased to be perceptible and the bleeding was still unchecked. Dr. Flegal of Karthaus was telephoned for and about a half an hour after that Sickel succeeded in entirely stopping the flow of blood. From this time on he grew steadily stronger until Tuesday morning when he was sent to the hospital where it was found that the Lateral nasal artery was ruptured. While this was a very deplorable occurrence and might have been much worse, yet, it was of course, purely an accident, the blame for which can not rest on any one person but equally on each and every one who has at any time played ball at the same place. We hope that this roadway in its former capacity of base ball ground has, in this incident, seen its Waterloo.

Yesterday a week ago, Flemington played the C. T. A. U. of this place and came off victorious by the close score of 4-3.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietor have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

STATE FIGHT OPENED.

[Special Correspondence.]

Philadelphia, Aug. 23.—The Republican campaign in Pennsylvania has been formally opened, and it is predicted that the Keystone state will, when the votes shall be counted in November, continue to lead the column of Republican states of the union by the size of her Republican majority.

Work at headquarters of the Republican state committee in this city has been under way for a week, and very satisfactory progress has been made. In the absence of Senator Boies Penrose, the chairman, Colonel Wesley R. Andrews, secretary of the state committee, has been in charge, and he expects to have all the preliminaries of the canvass disposed of before the chairman shall return. There has been a vast amount of correspondence already with the chairmen of the county committees and other active Republicans throughout the state, and reports received from various quarters indicate that the Republicans of this state are taking a very lively interest in the coming election, and that they will continue to do so until the polls are closed on election day.

Hundreds of well-known Republicans from the interior of the state and from the several wards of this city have called at the state headquarters and volunteered their services for campaign work. Many young men who have not heretofore taken a hand in politics have asked to be enrolled for organization purposes, and a long list of orators has been made up for Chairman Penrose to call upon when occasion shall require that they be dispatched to different parts of the state to address mass meetings.

There are a thousand and one things to be put into shape before the active outdoor campaigning shall be inaugurated, and it is this work that is engaging the attention of Secretary Andrews, who, with a score of stenographers, is busy until late every evening at the headquarters on Locust street, above Broad.

This building is admittedly the best equipped and most desirable headquarters of any political organization in the country. The property has been leased by the Republican organization of Pennsylvania for a number of years, and it is admirably suited for the purposes for which it is being used.

Since the last campaign the building has been thoroughly renovated and made more attractive in many ways.

Chairman Penrose and Secretary Andrews have adjoining offices on the second floor, each with an outlook on Locust street.

Chairman Penrose and Secretary Andrews had several conferences before the senator departed on his vacation, and the plans for the campaign were fully mapped out. Senator Penrose has just written home that he expects to be back in this city by September 1. He is having an enjoyable time riding on horseback in the wilds of Wyoming and Idaho, and will without doubt return in splendid health to take up the work of the chairmanship of the state committee and press the campaign vigorously during the last eight weeks of the contest.

A meeting of the Republican state committee will be held on or about September 12, at which nominations will be made to fill vacancies on the presidential electoral ticket. Some of those who were nominated for these honors by the Republican state convention have been found to be ineligible for the position by reason of the fact that they are connected with national banks. They must either resign their positions in these financial institutions or get off the ticket. Some will retire from the ticket, while others have expressed a determination to temporarily withdraw from their connection with national banks so that they may have an opportunity to vote in the electoral college for Roosevelt and Fairbanks.

The meeting of the state committee will afford Chairman Penrose an opportunity to personally confer with the active men from the different counties and to have them report as to the condition of the party organization in their respective districts.

An Animal Story For Little Folks

A Race With a Train

"They say that geese are slow on their feet," said Billy Goose one day. "Now, if I only had some one to ride on my back I believe I could beat a railroad train running, and I would not flap my wings once."

Well, Polka Dot agreed to ride him, and they waited for a train. Billy

POLKA DOT AGREED TO RIDE.

Goose with Polka Dot got on one track and held their breath until they saw a train coming on the other.

"Toot! toot!" said the train.

"Get up!" cried Polka Dot.

"We're off!" sang Billy Goose.

And down the tracks they went. It was really quite surprising how fast the goose could run. Around the curves, across hedges and through tunnels they hurried until Polka Dot got real dizzy and his eyes were filled with cinders.

Presently what should Billy Goose see ahead of him but another train, coming in his very direction and on the selfsame track on which he was running.

"Toot! toot!" said the train.

"Get out of the way," said Polka Dot.

"Don't stop me," said Billy Goose.

And the next moment the train hit poor Billy and there wasn't anything left of the race, so far as he was concerned, but a basketful of goose feathers that Polka Dot picked up from the track half an hour later, when he had recovered from the shock.—Atlanta Constitution.

CONCERTS BY MASSED BANDS

Prizes Aggregating $30,000 to Be Distributed at the World's Fair.

Never were musical events in America planned upon such an elaborate scale as those of the World's Fair. A series of concerts will be given by competing bands in contest for prizes offered by the World's Fair. These contests will take place in Festival Hall, Sept. 12 to 17.

Nine cash prizes, aggregating $30,000, are offered for the successful bands. The prizes are divided so as to give to the organization scoring the highest number of points $3,250; $2,500 will be given to the band scoring the second highest number of points and $1,500 to the one getting the third highest number.

The above division is made for bands in Class A, which consist of twenty members. In the B class $10,000 will be given in prizes—first, $4,500; second, $3,500; third, $2,000.

Class C, which includes bands of thirty-five members, will enjoy the division of $12,750. For the organization scoring the highest number of points a prize of $6,000 has been named. The second prize is $4,000 and the third $2,700.

Bands employed by the Exposition are not permitted to contest. All players must be bona fide members, and each musician must have been enrolled at least three months prior to the date of the contest. Each band must send to the bureau the name of its members and a nominal entrance fee.

Festival Hall concerts by massed bands will be given at 7:30 each day during the contest, in which all contesting bands will take part under the direction of a distinguished conductor. All bands entering must agree to play one concert in addition to the competing concert and massed concerts.

A separate programme has been prepared by the Bureau of Music for each class, and each band will play through the full programme of its class. The numbers in all three programmes are by eminent composers and are chosen with the view of bringing out the qualities of the bands performing them. The list of composers includes Wagner, Gounod, Offenbach, Verdi, Saint-Saens, Bizet, Strauss and Leoncavallo.

WEATHER AT WORLD'S FAIR.

Cool Nights and Delightful Indian Summer to Be Expected at St. Louis.

Usually the warmest month of the year, July proved to be one of the most pleasant of the World's Fair season, the average temperature being 67 degrees, a record lower than that made by either Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Cincinnati or Chicago. The weather bureau records show that the temperatures in St. Louis during July were just between the extremes recorded at New Orleans and St. Paul, cities located at great variance.

August in St. Louis is a month of cool nights, and September and October are the most delightful months of the year. It is that period known as Indian summer, when the foliage and birds linger to challenge the coming winter. Nowhere on the American continent is there a spot more delightful than the World's Fair city, a garden of blooming flowers and spraying fountains.

St. Louis, like all cities, experienced several hot days during July, but her highest temperature recorded was 93 degrees against 94 degrees registered by the thermometer at Chicago. On the same day the mercury rose to 96 degrees in Philadelphia, and scores of heat prostrations were reported from New York and Boston.

The relative humidity shows St. Louis to be about normal. Assuming absolutely no moisture in the atmosphere to be zero and absolute wetness to be 100, the relative humidities for July, taken from the records of more than twenty years, Boston shows 70.6, New York 72.2, Philadelphia 68.6, Cincinnati 64.6, Chicago 66.9 and St. Louis 66.3. The same degree of heat in two places, with different degrees of humidity, would cause it to seem the hotter at the point of greater density.

St. Louis may therefore rightly claim to be a summer resort this summer, positively one of the most comfortable and delightful places on the map.

Mr. Pigeon's Sad Mistake

"Now that you have such fine Sunday clothes, I should have a new hat," said Mrs. Pigeon to Mr. Pigeon.

"What kind of a hat?" asked Mr. Pigeon.

"A hat with ostrich feathers," said Mrs. Pigeon.

"Where can I get them?" asked Mr. Pigeon.

"From the tail of that ostrich walking across the field," said Mrs. Pigeon.

"I'LL TRY," SAID MR. PIGEON.

"Oh, he would not let me pull the feathers from his tail!" cried Mr. Pigeon. "Only men can do that."

"You surprise me!" cried Mrs. Pigeon. "Why, with that high hat and polka dot tie and standing collar and striped trousers you look so much like a man that the ostrich will think you are a man. Run along over there now like a good husband and get me the feathers."

"I'll try," said Mr. Pigeon, and off he went. He got up real close to the ostrich and made a dive for a feather.

The ostrich turned his head and dealt Mr. Pigeon a fearful whack with his bill. The high hat was split clear in two, and Mr. Pigeon rolled over on the ground in a heap half senseless. Then Mr. Ostrich walked away as if nothing had happened.

"He didn't think I was a man," said Mr. Pigeon to his wife as she bathed his head.

"You silly goose!" said she. "You should have told him you were a man. Then it would have been easy."—Worcester Post.

AN IMITATION OF NATURE'S METHOD of restoring waste of tissue and impoverishment of the blood and nervous force is used when you take an alterative extract of herbs and roots, without the use of alcohol, like Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. This vegetable medicine coaxes the digestive functions and helps in the assimilation of food, or rather takes from the food just the nutriment the blood requires.

Along with its use one should take exercise in the outdoor air, get all one can of God's sunlight and air; a mild breathing exercise practiced each day. This "Medical Discovery" gives no false stimulation, because it does not contain alcohol or a narcotic. It helps digestion and the assimilation of such elements in the food as are required for the blood. Instead of a cod liver oil, against which the already sensitive stomach will declare open rebellion, this tonic has a pacifying action upon the sensitive stomach and gives to the blood the food elements the tissues require. It maintains one's nutrition by enabling him to eat, retain, digest and assimilate nutritious food. It overcomes gastric irritability and symptoms of indigestion, and, in this way, fever, night-sweats, headaches, etc., are done away with.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery purifies the blood and entirely eradicates the poisons that breed and feed disease. It thus cures scrofula, eczema, erysipelas, boils, pimples, and other eruptions that mar and scar the skin. Pure blood is essential to good health. The weak, run-down, debilated condition which so many people experience is commonly the effect of impure blood. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery not only cleanses the blood of impurities, but it increases the activity of the blood-making glands, and it enriches the body with an abundant supply of pure, rich blood.

No matter how powerful the intellect or the resources of intellectual power, it must be backed up by physical force. Every day the youth or man must manufacture a pint of rich, arterial blood, that is pure, stimulating to the brain, and that can rebuild the tissues that were destroyed in yesterday's work.

"I have been a sufferer from indigestion for some thirty years, at times," writes Mr. S. W. Mullenax, of Circleville, W. Va., "and have used medicine from several of our best physicians, which gave me only a little temporary relief. They said I could never be cured. Last winter I was stricken with the worst spell that I ever had. I suffered with such severe pains in the pit of my stomach that I could neither work nor sleep, and my weight went down from one hundred and ninety-five pounds to one hundred and sixty pounds in about two months' time. I then concluded that I would try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. By the time the first bottle was gone, I felt some relief from my severe suffering so continued until I had used four bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and two vials of 'Pleasant Pellets.' I am truly thankful for the great benefit which I have received from your medicine, and can cordially recommend it to others."

MOST IMPOSING PAGEANT.

Templar Parade to be Greatest Event on Pacific Coast.

The grand parade of the Knights Templar to take place on Tuesday, September 6, is destined to be the most imposing pageant and the greatest display ever seen in the streets of San Francisco. It is confidently expected that fully 10,000 Sir Knights will be in the parade, making a line about four miles in length, and not less than 200,000 persons will line the thoroughfares to witness the grandest and most brilliant spectacle ever seen on the Pacific Coast, one that may not occur again during the life of the present generation. In that line will be some of the most distinguished persons from all parts of the United States, Canada, and even from across the Atlantic, coming to the shores of the Pacific as the special representatives of the highest Masonic bodies of England and Wales, and the personal representatives of King Edward, of England, who was Grand Master of the English branch of the order before he ascended the British throne. The delegation will be headed by the Earl of Easton, now occupying the highest position in the Great Priory of England and Wales. The chief officers of the Great Priory of Canada are expected to join their British cousins on the western pilgrimage, and the delegates will ride in the parade attired in their gorgeous uniforms studded with glittering gems of fabulous value. The Grand Master and his official family, representing the Grand Encampment of the United States, and the Grand Commander or his representative from every grand jurisdiction in the United States, will occupy positions of honor in the line. California Commandery and Golden Gate, the local commanderies, will shine in their rich and decidedly distinctive uniforms, which have attracted attention and elicted admiration at every conclave the Californians have attended.

A striking feature of the parade will be the cavalcade of mounted knights, as fine a body of men as ever sat in a saddle. Among the commanderies who will appear mounted in the parade are California Commandery, of San Francisco; De Witt Clinton Commandery, of Virginia City, Nev., and Corinthian Chasseur Commandery, of Philadelphia. They will be mounted on black steeds, or as many as can be procured, for there will be about 1,000 mounted knights in line, and black horses have been secured in San Francisco, Oakland, Alameda, San Jose, Sacramento, Stockton, Santa Clara, Marin, Sonoma, Napa, Solano, Contra Costa, and San Mateo counties—the pick of California's famed horses—and that part of the parade will be a rare sight in itself.

The parade will consist of twelve grand divisions, headed by a company of mounted police, commanded by Sir Knight George W. Wittman, Chief of Police. Eminent Sir Charles L. Field, Grand Captain General, will command the parade, and Eminent Sir George D. Clark will be his Chief of Staff. The first division commanded by Colonel Frank W. Sumner, with Colonel Jesse Fuller, as Chief of Staff, will be headed by California Commandery. No. 1, mounted, who will act as special escort to the Grand Master. The carriages will contain Sir Henry Bates Stoddard, Grand Master of the United States; the Earl of Euston, Grand Master of the Great Priory of England and Wales; Sir George Mayhew Moulton, Deputy Grand Master; Sir Charles F. Matier, Great Vice-Chancellor of the Great Priory, and officers of the Grand Encampment and of the Great Priory. Golden Gate Commandery, Sir P. D. Code Commanding, will act as special escort to the Grand Encampment and visitors from other grand jurisdictions in carriages.

The Grand Commandery of Massachusetts and Rhode Island and subordinate commanderies. Pennsylvania will form one grand division, and the other grand jurisdictions are suitably grouped. The ninth, tenth, eleventh and twelfth grand divisions are reserved for the commanderies of California. If enough mounted knights, aside from those already assigned, should desire to ride in the parade, one more division will be created.

Prominent Clearfield People Wedded.

Hazzard A. Murray, a prominent young attorney of Clearfield, and Maria Bigler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bigler, were married at the bride's home Tuesday evening at 5 o'clock. The ceremony was witnessed by the immediate families, the Rev. M. K. Foster, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church, officiating. The bride belongs to one of Clearfield's oldest and most prominent families. The groom is the son of Hon. Thomas H. Murray and is a popular young man of thetown.

THE DAY AT HECLA.

Largest Crowd in Years at Business Men's Picnic.

The annual picnic of the business men of Centre and Clinton counties held at Hecla Park Thursday was the largest and most successful gathering of the kind held in many years. The weather was ideal and in point of attendance it has seldom been surpassed. A fair estimate of the attendance places it at between 7500 and 8000. There was fun for everybody and no accident happened to mar the pleasure of the day. There was plenty of amusements, music and a general good time. The railroad services was much better than in former years and the Central Railroad of Pennsylvania is to be congratulated on the excellent manner in which they handled the big crowd. The Coleville band of this place and the Loganton Cornet band furnished delightful music.

Among the amusements of the day was an amateur minstrel show, in which Bellefonte and Lock Haven local talent took part. They gave two performances one in the afternoon and one at night. Henry C. Quigley was the interlocutor; George Meek and Jim Harris of this place, and Messrs Ryan, Baker and Strayer of Lock Haven were on the ends. The solo parts were taken by Arthur Salmon and Mr. Law, of Lock Haven and Henry Brown of Bellefonte. The Germania orchestra of Lock Haven furnished the music.

There was a tumbling act by Messrs Ryan, Hayes and Strayer and club swinging by Prof. Fall.

The shooting match was also quite interesting. Centre and Clinton county marksmen participated in it. The prize a handsome gun was won by Wm. Zimmerman, of Mingoville.

The chief feature of the day however was the sensational ball game between Sunbury and Milton, the former winning out in the 12th inning. The score.

Sunbury	0	1	0	0	0	0	0	2	0	0	1	—	4
Milton	0	0	0	0	3	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	— 3

And so went the day which is marked as one of the greatest ever witnessed at Hecla Park.

W. C. T. U. Convention.

The county convention of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, of Centre county, will open in Petrikin Hall, Monday evening, Sept. 5th, and continue until Sept. 7th. Mrs. Mary H. Hunt, of Boston, who was instrumental in having scientific temperance instruction introduced into the public schools of every state in the union, save one—will give a free public address. Mrs. Hunt is a life director of the National Educational Association, and world superintendent and director of the bureau of that department.

No one interested in our schools can afford to miss hearing her. She will also be at the opening session of the convension on Tuesday morning. All are cordially invited. Tuesday evening an oratorical contest will be held by speakers from different points in the county. Remember the dates and plan to come to these meetings.

Mackeyville Girl's Feat.

The Sayre Times says: the first woman to ascend one of the high chimneys on the new power house is Miss Pearl Henry, of Mackeyville, this state. Miss Henry is a niece of Dr. LaPlant and has been spending the summer at his home on Lehigh avenue. At noon time Saturday Miss Henry visited the shop plot with the doctor's son and while there conceived the idea of going to the top of the second stack, all of which is finished except the coping. She stepped on the elevator and a moment later was at the top 200 feet from the ground. After reaching the top she unfurled an American flag, and this she waved to those who were watching her from various points in the town. The feat requires considerable nerve, and few men not accustomed to dizzy heights would care to attempt it.

THE PANTHER HUNTING CLUB.

Met at the Garman House Wednesday Evening to Plan for Fall Outing.

Linn McGinley, John Knisely, R. S. Brouse, Lewis Gettig, Harry Gerberich, Bruce Garman and W. C. Cassidy, a majority of members of the "Panthers," the famous (?) and hopeful aggregation of deerslayers—(in passing it might be well to remark that they especially pride themselves in their ability also to carry "ramshackle" stoves and push heavy flat cars over mountain tramways at any grades less than 45 degrees) held the first meeting at Garman House, Wednesday evening preparatory to taking their annual fall trip to the mountains. They have been fairly successful heretofore, but are going to move carefully and feel confident the outing this year will be more enjoyable in every respect than any previous one. The following officers were elected: Linn McGinley was re-elected president; R. S. Brouse, treasurer and W. C. Cassidy, secretary. Next meeting will be held at same place on Wednesday Sept. 14, at 8:30 p. m., at which time practically final preparations will be made.

The Berlin Combined Elevated and Underground Railway.

The trains on the Berlin elevated and underground railway are composed generally of three cars, but during the hours of greater traffic of four. Besides this, in summer time two-car trains are run sometimes.

The cars have two doors on the side, one near each end, and on entering the passengers pass through a vestibule open to the main room, where seats are arranged lengthwise and facing each other. On each side are fifteen seats of fifty-one centimetres width. More seats are in the vestibule, so that thirty-five to forty passengers can be seated, but during the rush hours many persons are forced to stand, though the crowd is not so terrible as during certain hours on the New York elevated. The cars are lighted by twelve incandescent lamps, and are nicely furnished and very clean. An inconvenience is felt in summer time in that the windows cannot be opened on account of the narrow section of the tunnel. The result is that the air is sometimes insupportable, as the small openings underneath the roof are insufficient for ventilation, during winter the cars are well heated by electricity. The ordinary trains are composed of two third-class cars, one being a smoker, and between these two is one second-class car, divided by a door into two compartments, smoking and non-smoking. The third-class has wooden, the second upholstered seats.—Paul Moller, in The Engineering Magazine for August.

—Foley's Kidney Cure is a medicine free from poisons and will cure any case of kidney disease that is not beyond the reach of medicine. C. M. Parrish.

Try it.

Try to compute your artificial wants—the number of the things which you fancy come under the list of must have's, merely because other people possess them, and not because you would not be quite as well off and as happy in their absence. Try it for one week whenever your fingers are tempted to dally with your purse strings.

Record in your memorandum book what in view of this you sensibly resolve not to buy, and see what a nice little sum will be left you for real necessaries. It is seldom by these last that one is hampered and annoyed. Make the experiment, and see if it is not so. A just economy is not niggardliness; one need not be a miser in avoiding the extravagance of a spendthrift.

A Physician Healed.

Dr. Geo. Ewing, a practicing physician of Smith's Grove, Ky. for over thirty years, writes his personal experience with Foley's Kidney Cure: "For years I had been greatly bothered with kidney and bladder trouble and enlarged prostrate gland. I used everything known to the profession without relief, until I commenced to use Foley's Kidney Cure. After taking three bottles I was entirely relieved and cured. I prescribe it now daily in my practice and heartily recommend its use to all physicians for such troubles. I have prescribed it in hundreds of cases with perfect success. C. M. Parrish.

Dams Must Have Fishways.

A contract has been awarded by the state fish commissioner to Reiter, Cartis & Hill of Philadelphia to construct three fishways through the dam across the Susquehanna river at Clarks Ferry at a cost of $4,237.50. Fish Commissioner Meehan is watching the construction of dams in the state and in every instance insists that fishways be placed in them so as to permit the free passage of fish up and down stream.

Two Bottles Cured Him.

"I was troubled with kidney complaint for about two years," writes A. H. Davis, of Mt. Sterling, Ia., "but two bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure effected a permanent cure." C. M. Parrish.

"Hamlet" at Elsinore.

Shakespearean commentators have wondered why the poet placed the scenes of "Hamlet" at Elsinore, in the island of Zealand, whereas the Danish prince lived and died in Jutland. But the municipal authorities at Elsinore discovered in their archives that an English company was acting in their town in 1587 or 1588, and among the names of the actors are several of those who were acting with Shakespeare in London in 1589. Obviously these actors must have talked about their adventures in Denmark, and so Shakespeare became well acquainted with Elsinore and when he wrote "Hamlet" naturally placed the scene in a place which he knew by description rather than in a place of which he knew nothing.

The General Utility Consul.

In those larger towns in Turkey where England is represented by a consul that official is looked upon as a sort of court of appeal by Christians, Armenians, Bulgarians, Macedonians and even Jews, who have probably never heard an English word spoken, will appeal to the British consul when in difficulties, and he rarely refuses his kind offices. In ordinary cases his unofficial backing of the "giaours" is effective.

Like the Rains of Summer.

VIN-TE-NA acts upon tired, nerve-racked humanity precisely as a shower of rain acts upon withering, sun-scorched vegetation. It brings heart-sick, half-sick discouraged people back to buoyant health, and does it quickly. There is not an element of experiment about this greatest of tonics. It is a scientific certainty, and to fail to do precisely what it was designed to do would be like reversing the law of cause and effect.

If convalescent, if you are languid, if you are tired in the morning, if you are discouraged, if you are nervous and fretful, if you are constantly worrying, if you are weak without knowing why, if your appetite is poor, if you sleep badly, if your circulation is poor, if you are half-sick and feel heavy and draggy and discontented, VIN-TE-NA is just the tonic you require. It will give you the kind of health you have envied in others. It will get you past the danger line of serious sickness.

Take VIN-TE-NA and tell others about it. It cures by making pure, red blood, and thus giving force and stamina to the nerves all over the body. Where the blood and nerves are to blame for a weakened nervous condition VIN-TE-NA simply cannot fail to effect a speedy cure. It seems to actually make new nerves, new blood and new vigor. Under its electrifying influence the weak and exhausted feelings give place to strength and buoyancy, the brain becomes clear, the nerves strong and steady, the gloom of weakness and the depression of impending disease are lifted from the mind and perfect pleasure-giving health is restored.

BRIEF MENTION

Short Items of Local Interest Gathered By The Way Side

—The Bellefonte Academy will open its Fall term Tuesday Sept. 13th.

—Saturday was pay day at the American Lime and Stone Companys works.

—The Rev. and Mrs. J. E. Morris together with the Rev. Benjamin Wheeler P. E. were highly entertained at dinner by Mrs. Abraham Jackson, Monday evening.

—James Harshbarger, son of Squire H. H. Harsbarger, is confined to his home on Penn street with illness. It is feared by his physician and parents that he has been hurt internally, as he is suffering excruciating pain.

—Webner Butler, aged 64 years, a prosperous farmer of Marsh Creek died Thursday afternoon at his home in that place. He is survived by his wife and 12 children, six boys and 6 girls. The funeral took place Saturday at 2 o'clock.

—At the parsonage of the Main street M. E. church, Lock Haven, by Rev. J. L. Leilich, D. D., on the evening of the 18th inst., Warren V. Beck and Miss Edna M. Hosterman both of Wolf's Store, Centre county, Pa., were united in the bonds of matrimony.

—The Williamsport Commercial College teaches by mail. $10 pays for a course in shorthand and $13 pays for a course in book-keeping. Write for a trial lesson; they are free. 65 lessons in business writing for $2.50. The college helps its students to get good positions.

—A jolly crowd of young folks picnicked on Half Moon hill on Monday and from all accounts they must have had a royal good time. The party was composed of Misses Vado, Margaret and Mary Davidson Rev. May Whitehead, Messrs. William Davidson, Chas. Ammerman and William Lose.

—Thursday the first team of Snow Shoe will cross bats with the Bellefonte Athletics on Meadow Brook Park. This Snow Shoe team has been sweeping everything before them that they have run up against, but our boys are determined to block the tide and turn them back.

—The Lock Haven Express states that at the United States recruiting station in that place Cameron McGarvey, William B. Wilson and Harvey W. Shope, all of Bellefonte, enlisted for service in the regular army infantry and were sent to Columbus, O., and Wallace B. Underwood, also of this place, enlisted in the cavalry service and was sent to Jefferson barracks.

—It is probable that among the early fall attractions at Garman's will be "The Strollers," which will open at the Park theater in Philadelphia on September 5th The production will be under direction of Nixon & Zimmerman and those who remember the "Miss Bob White Co.," that was here last fall under the same management, will realize that the engagement of "Strollers" is an important one.

—The Elmores, who have lived in one of the Zimmerman houses on east Lamb street the past few years, are breaking up housekeeping. Mrs. Elmore has been engaged to keep house for Mr. James Curtin and Miss Fannie has rented two rooms in Crider's Exchange and is very busy these days fitting up her future abode. She will lodge in the Exchange and take her meals at Curtin's. Mr. Newton Bailey will also take rooms.

—Our girls will be interested in the following account of how a fashion originated: "Early this spring a society women in New York lost her servant girl. She was known as a hard woman on servant girls and she was put on the Servant Girls' Union's blacklist. She tried for weeks to hire a servant girl in her kitchen, but in vain. She was compelled to do her own kitchen work. Therefore when her fashionable friends called she had to receive them with her sleeves rolled up. The fashinable people thought this must be a new style, and began appearing on the streets with their sleeves rolled up."

—The quarterly conference held at the A. M. E. church was a grand success. The report showed marked increase in every department of the work. At the close of the conference, a resolution was offered asking for the return of their pastor, Rev. J. E. Morris for to serve them another year. When the Rev. Mr. Morris, with his guests arrived home here they met with another surprise, for the people had assembled, and the table was ladened with the necessaries of life, some refreshments were served after which the friends repared to their homes. The Rev. Dr. Lee, of Pittsburg Pa., and the Rev. Dr. Askew, of Williamsport, Pa., expressed themselves as being highly pleased with the work that has been accomplished in our church here this year.

—Mr. Thad Hamilton is having his double house on Allegheny street freshened up with a new coat of paint.

—Only one marriage license was issued during the past week and the happy parties were Clarence M. Goodman, of Altoona, and Maude Hunter, of Stormstown.

—Great preparations are being made for the Schenck Family Re-Union to be held at Schenck's Grove near Howard on September 8th. It promises to be a great success.

—Rev. E. Crumbling, of Lewisburg will preach in the United Evangelical church at Milesburg on Sunday morning at 10:30. The public is cordially invited to attend

—Miss Caroline Anderson is suffering at her home on Bishop street from an attack of appendicitis. It is sincerely hoped by her many friends that she may speedily recover.

—Dr. Austin Thomas has located in Centre Hall for the practice of medicine in that place and the country around. He is highly spoken of as an experienced and successful physician.

—Ex-Judge Austin O. Furst entertained on Tuesday evening the ministers of the town and the deacons and elders of the Presbyterian church at his residence on West Linn street.

—The Centre County Fair will be held in Bellefonte the first week in October, and from present indications it will surpass anything of the kind that has ever taken place in Centre County.

—One of the liveliest games of base ball to be played this season will occur at Snow Shoe Friday 26th when the powerful Osceola team will cross bats with the Catholic Temperance Association.

—H. Winkleman, of Nittany Hall, will put his cider press in operation the first Tuesday in September and will continue in operation every Tuesday and Thursday. Your patronage solicited.

—William T. Kelley, clerk of the town council, is perambulating around on crutches the result of a sprained instep. If you want to know how it happened you will have to ask him as he postively refused to be interviewed by a reporter of this paper on the matter.

EX-CENTRE COUNTIANS MEET.

They Gathered at Glasgow Grove Saturday, and Had a Good Time.

On Saturday last at Glasgow's park, near Bellwood, the fourth annual reunion of former Centre county people who now reside in Blair county was held, and a very pleasant time was had by the goodly number of people who were present, notwithstanding the fact that the day was an unfavorable one for picnicking. Music was furnished by the Bellwood orchestra, and the people danced, performed the cake walk act, ate from their well laden baskets and made merry. Rev. Levi Robb made a fine address and extolled the good qualities of the people who hail from Centre county where they rear governors and do many other things not on the program in other counties. H. L. Harvey, the most enthusiastic farmer's institute man in the central part of the state, made a short address, and our own "Corporal" William T. Canan, who was born within the limits of Old Centre, but learned nearly all he knows—and that is a good bit—right here in Tyrone, made a whole lot of entertaining remarks. The day, to cut the story short, was a real pleasant one for those assembled at the Glasgow grove to recall their recollections of many things that happened when they lived in Centre county, whose hub is Bellefonte.

An election for officers was held which resulted as follows: President, A. Bucher, Altoona; first vice president, W. T. Canan, Tyrone; second vice president, Samuel Wagner, Juniata; treasurer, Samuel Felty, Altoona; secretary, John Weaver, Altoona.

In the musical feature Greenland's orchestra was assisted by H. L. Stewart, of Tyrone.—Tyrone Herald.

DEATH OF ELLIS ETTERS.

Found Dead Sunday Morning Along Railroad Track at Cataract.

Was it murder, suicide or an accident? That is the question that is agitating the minds of the friends and family of Ellis Etters, of Cataract, Clearfield county, whose dead body was found Sunday morning, lying along the Beech Creek railroad track near Buttermilk Falls. The only marks on his body were one or two bruises on the head.

Ellis Etters, who by the way is a brother of Prof. D. O. Etters, and a half brother of Mrs. Claude Thompson, of this place, was operating a large lumber job near Pine Glenn. Saturday, all day, he worked in the woods, and Saturday night he left the Cataract Hotel and started for his home, which is just across the river, from the town of Cataract. To get over the river he used a row boat and that was the last seen of him until his dead body was picked up the next morning almost in sight of his home.

There are several stories afloat in regard to the affair. Some think that he was struck by a Beech Creek engine. The suicide theory is dismissed by his friends as not worthy of consideration as they say he had no reason to commit such an act.

A story telephoned to this office from Snow Shoe Monday morning states that the general supposition is that Etters was "done away with" and the body laid along the railroad track to divert suspicion. It is believed that Etters had considerable money on his person Saturday night, and that he displayed it in some manner with the result that he was followed, robbed and murdered.

Ellis Etters was the son of Peter Etters and was born at Buffalo Run, Centre county, 55 years ago. He was a hard working industrious man and most of his life he followed lumbering. He was a member of the Advent church, married and leaves a wife and six children. He also leaves the following brothers and sisters: David O., of Bellefonte; William, of Oregon; Reuben, of Pine Glenn; Mrs. Maggie J. Boyer, of Michigan; Mrs. Claude Thompson, of Bellefonte.

The funeral took place Tuesday morning. Interment in the Advent cemetery at Pine Glenn.

Death of a Howard Citizen.

Jacob Long, an aged citizen of Howard, died Wednesday night at 11 o'clock of a complication of diseases aged about 78 years. He is survived by his wife and the following children: Bertha, now Mrs. Robert McGhee, of Clearfield county; Elsie, now Mrs. Oscar Yeager, of Bellefonte; Miss Alice, at home; William M., of Indiana; Clyde C., of Howard, and Had, wife of William Aley, of Emporium, who was the daughter of Mr. Long's second wife. The present Mrs. Long is his third wife. Mr. Long was born in Porter township, Clinon county, and is quite well known in Clinton and Centre, his present home. He was a well known surveyor and possessed a knowledge of our wild lands second to none in the county. He is a brother of Joseph H. Long, the large farm owner of Flemington. Funeral services were held at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon conducted by Rev. E. O. Irvin, of Lock Haven.

Dead Along the Railroad Track.

The body of an unknown man was found at Saegers Lycoming county, yesterday. The head was crushed, one arm and a part of a shoulder was cut off and the upper portion of the body is crushed. A bicycle was found near the body and it is thought the man had been riding along the track and had been thrown under the wheels of a train, either by suction or by his wheel hitting some obstruction. Coronor Gilmore went to Saegers to hold an inquest. Deceased was a comparatively young man. There was a small comb in the pocket of the dead man on which the name Thomas O'Brien had been scratced.—Lock Haven Democrat.

Death of Mrs. Margaret Royer.

Mrs. Margaret Royer, aged about 66 years, died of heart trouble Wednesday morning at 10:30 o'clock at the home of her only daughter, Mrs. Philip Beezer, on the corner of Bishop and Spring streets. She had been ailing since last March. She was a former resident of Spring Mills but has made her home in Bellefonte for the past 15 years. The funeral will take place Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. Wm. Laurie officiating, interment in Union cemetery.

Death of Ellis Flick.

At 2 o'clock Monday afternoon Ellis Flick died at his home at Mill Run, near Altoona, of consumption, after an illness covering a period of four months. He was born at Julian, Centre county, was aged 64 years, and had resided in that vicinity for five years, working at his trade, that of a shoemaker in Altoona. The funeral took place at 10 o'clock Thursday morning. Interment in Hutchison's cemetery.

Meals at the Williams Re-union.

There are some people who have been hitherto deterred from attending the William's reunion at Martha because meals could not be purchased on the grounds. At the Reunion of this year which occurs on Saturday, provisions for this need has been made. A committee of the Baptist congregation have been given the privilege of providing meals for the hungry. Dinner and supper will be furnished at the nominal low price of 25 cents each. Sandwiches, coffee, etc., will also be on sale. The proceeds of these will be devoted to the repairs of the church building.

Timely Warning.

Farmers of Bald Eagle and Beech Creek townships, who turn young cattle on the Allegheny mountains between Tangas Scootac and Baker's Run, find that some cattle have been slaughtered, some of it being done near the head of Holland's Run. Suspicion is resting on persons who have been traced up very closely. No one should be so ignorant of law as not to know what the penalty would be for an act of this kind.
